

Recipe Library Expansion

2026-05-07 | 6 -> 15 recipes | +9 new

Repo: mike9812121298/noodlebomb-flavor-hub

File edited: recipes.html (static deploy at noodlebomb.co/recipes)

Commit: 3b8824641feff0838793bd46448490c721046a18

Pushed: 2026-05-07 to main (Netlify auto-deploy on push)

Live verified: noodlebomb.co/recipes shows all 15 cards across 4 sections.

Important: the production /recipes route is the static recipes.html file (per netlify.toml redirect /recipes -> /recipes.html). The src/pages/Recipes.tsx React component is dormant code. Both were updated for consistency, but recipes.html is what users see.

Categorization Breakdown

#	Recipe	Anchor SKU	Section
1	Crispy Rice Salmon Bowl	Original	Restaurant bowls
2	Tokyo Heat Mapo Udon	Spicy Tokyo	Restaurant bowls
3	Citrus Shoyu Tuna Poke	Citrus Shoyu	Restaurant bowls
4	Citrus Shoyu Glazed Salmon	Citrus Shoyu	Restaurant bowls
5	Spicy Tokyo Smashburger	Spicy Tokyo	Beyond the bowl
6	Tokyo Heat Dumpling Dip	Spicy Tokyo	Beyond the bowl
7	Spring Onion Citrus Slaw	Citrus Shoyu	Beyond the bowl
8	Sunday Night Chashu Ramen	Original	Project recipes
9	Charred Broccoli Crunch Bowl	Original	Project recipes

Per-SKU split: Original 3 / Spicy Tokyo 3 / Citrus Shoyu 3

Final library lineup on the live page

Quick wins (existing 6): The Restaurant-Style Ramen, Citrus Shoyu Salmon Bowl, Spicy Tokyo Wing Toss, Soy-Butter Eggs, Charred Brassicas, Spicy Tokyo Stir-Fry

Restaurant bowls (4 new): Crispy Rice Salmon Bowl, Tokyo Heat Mapo Udon, Citrus Shoyu Tuna Poke, Citrus Shoyu Glazed Salmon

Beyond the bowl (3 new): Spicy Tokyo Smashburger, Tokyo Heat Dumpling Dip, Spring Onion Citrus Slaw

Project recipes (2 new): Sunday Night Chashu Ramen, Charred Broccoli Crunch Bowl

Total: 15 recipes, 4 sections, 5/5/5 per-SKU split (Original/Spicy/Citrus).

The 9 New Recipes — Full Detail

1. Sunday Night Chashu Ramen

Anchor: Original

Time / Difficulty / Servings: 2h 30 min | Project | 4

Category: Project recipe / restaurant-bowl

Pairing: Finish bowls with a side drizzle of Spicy Tokyo for heat-seekers at the table.

Ingredients

- 1.5 lb pork belly, kitchen twine
- 4 cups dashi or chicken stock
- 1/4 cup soy sauce + 1/4 cup mirin
- 4 garlic cloves + 2-inch knob fresh ginger
- 4 portions fresh ramen noodles
- 4 marinated soft eggs, scallions, nori
- 12 tablespoons NoodleBomb Original (3 tbsp per bowl)

Steps

1. Tie 1.5 lb pork belly into a tight log with kitchen twine. Sear all sides in a Dutch oven until deep brown.
2. Add 4 cups dashi or chicken stock, 1/4 cup soy sauce, 1/4 cup mirin, 4 garlic cloves, and a 2-inch knob of ginger sliced thin.
3. Cover and braise at 300F for 2 hours, turning the pork halfway through.
4. Lift the pork out, slice into 1/2-inch coins, and torch or sear the slices for caramelized edges.
5. Cook 4 portions of fresh ramen noodles. Divide into bowls.
6. Pour 3 tablespoons of NoodleBomb Original over each bowl, then ladle 1 cup of the hot braising broth on top.
7. Top with chashu coins, a marinated soft egg, scallions, and sheet of nori.

Chef note

The braising liquid carries fat and umami - strain it before using as broth so the bowl reads clean, not greasy.

Image direction

Overhead shot of a wide, dark-glazed donburi bowl. Glossy chashu coins fan across the top, soft egg halved with bright orange yolk, scallions and nori in dramatic upright placement. Steam visible. NoodleBomb Original bottle out of focus in the background top-right corner. Warm tungsten lighting, late-evening kitchen mood.

2. Crispy Rice Salmon Bowl

Anchor: Original

Time / Difficulty / Servings: 25 mins | Weeknight+ | 2

Category: Restaurant-bowl

Pairing: Drizzle Citrus Shoyu over the avocado for a bright counterpoint.

Ingredients

- 2 salmon fillets (6 oz each)
- 2 cups cooked short-grain rice
- 2 tbsp neutral oil
- NoodleBomb Original (4-5 tbsp total)
- 1 avocado, scallions, sesame seeds, lime wedge

Steps

1. Pat 2 salmon fillets dry. Brush with NoodleBomb Original and let sit 10 minutes.
2. Heat 2 tbsp neutral oil in a non-stick pan. Press 2 cups cooked short-grain rice flat into the pan and let it crisp 6-8 minutes without stirring.
3. Sear salmon skin-side down in a separate pan for 4 minutes, flip, glaze with another spoon of NoodleBomb, finish 2 more minutes.

4. Slide the crispy rice onto plates, browned-side up. Top with salmon.
5. Drizzle with extra NoodleBomb, scatter sliced scallions and toasted sesame seeds, finish with avocado and a wedge of lime.

Chef note

Don't move the rice while it crisps - patience builds the crust. If you stir, you get fried rice; if you wait, you get tahdig.

Image direction

Tight 3/4 shot of a single bowl. Golden-brown crispy rice cake on the bottom with visible char marks; salmon fillet glistening with NoodleBomb glaze on top; sliced avocado fan, scallion confetti, sesame seeds, lime wedge. Side glass of cold beer slightly out of focus. Daylight, clean modern ceramic bowl.

3. Charred Broccoli Crunch Bowl

Anchor: Original
Time / Difficulty / ~~55 mins~~: | Weeknight | 2
Category: Project / pantry rescue
Pairing: Spoon over rice or stuff into a baguette for a Vietnamese-style broccoli sandwich.

Ingredients

- 1 large head broccoli (florets + stems)
- 2 tbsp neutral oil
- 4 tbsp NoodleBomb Original
- 1/2 cup roasted peanuts
- Fried shallots, torn cilantro

Steps

1. Cut 1 large head of broccoli into long flat planks (florets, stems and all).
2. Heat a cast iron skillet until smoking. Add 2 tbsp neutral oil and lay broccoli planks flat.
3. Char hard, 3-4 minutes per side, until edges are deep black-brown.
4. Slide broccoli into a wide bowl. Pour 4 tbsp NoodleBomb Original over while still hot.
5. Toss with 1/2 cup roasted peanuts, a handful of fried shallots, and torn cilantro.
6. Serve over rice or noodles, or eat straight from the bowl with a fork.

Chef note

Broccoli stems are the best part once you peel the tough skin - slice them on a bias and treat them like the planks.

Image direction

Cast iron skillet straight from the stovetop, broccoli planks black-edged and steaming. Dark-toned bowl beside it, peanuts catching highlight. Hand reaching in with a fork. High contrast, dramatic side lighting, restaurant-kitchen feel.

4. Tokyo Heat Mapo Udon

Anchor: Spicy Tokyo
Time / Difficulty / ~~20 mins~~: | Weeknight+ | 2
Category: Restaurant-bowl
Pairing: A cold beer and the Tokyo Heat Dumpling Dip on the side for gyoza appetizer.

Ingredients

- 1/2 lb ground pork
- 4 cloves garlic, 1 tbsp ginger, 1 tbsp doubanjiang
- 1 cup chicken stock
- 4 tbsp Spicy Tokyo
- 1 block silken tofu

- 2 portions thick udon
- Sichuan peppercorns, scallions, chili oil

Steps

1. Crumble 1/2 lb ground pork into a hot wok. Cook hard until edges crisp, 5 minutes.
2. Add 4 cloves minced garlic, 1 tbsp grated ginger, 1 tbsp doubanjiang. Stir-fry 1 minute.
3. Pour in 1 cup chicken stock and 4 tbsp Spicy Tokyo. Bring to a boil.
4. Slide in 1 block silken tofu cut into cubes. Simmer 3 minutes without stirring (let the tofu hold shape).
5. Cook 2 portions thick udon, drain, divide into bowls.
6. Spoon mapo over noodles. Finish with toasted Sichuan peppercorns, scallions, and a drizzle of chili oil.

Chef note

Toast whole Sichuan peppercorns in a dry pan 60 seconds before crushing - it doubles the floral-tingle effect over pre-ground.

Image direction

Top-down on thick udon noodles tangled in glossy red-orange mapo sauce. Cubes of silken tofu peeking through. Sichuan peppercorns visible. Black ceramic bowl, chopsticks resting across. Dramatic red-tinted lighting.

5. Tokyo Heat Dumpling Dip

Anchor: Spicy Tokyo

Time / Difficulty / Serves: Effortless | 4

Category: Beyond the bowl (dip)

Pairing: Pan-fried gyoza, frozen soup dumplings, or wontons - anything that needs a hit.

Ingredients

- 1/4 cup Spicy Tokyo
- 1 tbsp rice vinegar
- 1 tsp toasted sesame oil
- Scallion, sesame seeds, optional crushed garlic

Steps

1. Pour 1/4 cup Spicy Tokyo into a small dipping bowl.
2. Add 1 tbsp rice vinegar and 1 tsp toasted sesame oil. Whisk with a fork.
3. Top with thin-sliced scallion, a pinch of sesame seeds, and crushed garlic if you want a heavier hit.
4. Serve next to pan-fried gyoza, soup dumplings, or wontons.
5. Tell people you make it from scratch. They will never know.

Chef note

A drop of black vinegar instead of rice vinegar pushes this toward Shanghai-style - both are correct.

Image direction

Tight overhead on a small cobalt-blue ceramic dipping bowl filled with glossy dark sauce, scallion slices floating. A pair of perfectly pleated gyoza beside it, one being dipped mid-frame. Wood table, cinematic shallow depth.

6. Spicy Tokyo Smashburger

Anchor: Spicy Tokyo
Time / Difficulty / ~~35 mins~~: | Weeknight | 2
Category: Beyond the bowl (burger)
Pairing: Spring Onion Citrus Slaw on the side for crunch and acid.

Ingredients

- 1 lb ground beef (80/20)
- Spicy Tokyo (2-3 tbsp)
- 4 slices American cheese
- 2 brioche buns
- Iceberg, dill pickle, Kewpie mayo

Steps

1. Divide 1 lb ground beef (80/20) into 4 loose 4-oz balls. Do not pack.
2. Heat a cast iron skillet until smoking. Lay the balls in, season tops with salt.
3. Smash flat with a stiff spatula. Cook hard 90 seconds for crust, flip.
4. Brush each patty with 1 tsp Spicy Tokyo, top with American cheese, finish 30 seconds.
5. Stack two patties per bun. Add shredded iceberg, dill pickle, and a swipe of Kewpie mayo cut with another spoon of Spicy Tokyo.
6. Eat over the sink. Have napkins ready.

Chef note

The lacy edges happen because you smashed early and didn't move it. Patience earns crust here too.

Image direction

Side-on hero shot of a double-stack smashburger, melted American cheese flowing over crispy lace-edged patties. Dill pickles peeking out, bun lightly toasted. Splash of glossy Spicy Tokyo glaze on the patty surface visible. Diner-counter aesthetic, warm light.

7. Citrus Shoyu Glazed Salmon

Anchor: Citrus Shoyu
Time / Difficulty / ~~20 mins~~: | Weeknight | 2
Category: Restaurant-bowl
Pairing: Spring Onion Citrus Slaw makes this a 25-minute restaurant plate.

Ingredients

- 2 skin-on salmon fillets (6 oz each)
- 1 tbsp neutral oil
- 3 tbsp Citrus Shoyu
- 2 cups jasmine rice (cooked)
- Scallions, sesame seeds, fresh lemon

Steps

1. Pat 2 skin-on salmon fillets dry, season lightly with salt.
2. Heat 1 tbsp oil in a non-stick pan over medium-high. Lay salmon skin-side down, press flat for 30 seconds.
3. Cook undisturbed 5 minutes until skin is shatter-crisp. Flip, cook 2 minutes more.
4. Pour 3 tbsp Citrus Shoyu around the fillets. Tilt the pan so the sauce reduces and glazes the fish.
5. Plate over jasmine rice. Spoon any extra glaze from the pan over the top.
6. Finish with thin-sliced scallions, sesame seeds, and a squeeze of fresh lemon.

Chef note

Press the fillet flat for the first 30 seconds - it stops the skin curling and gives you full-edge contact for the crisp.

Image direction

Top-down on a single fillet plated over jasmine rice. Skin shatter-crisp, glaze pooling around the fish, scallions and sesame on top, lemon wedge to one side. Soft daylight on light-grey ceramic plate. Minimal styling.

8. Spring Onion Citrus Slaw

Anchor: Citrus Shoyu
Time / Difficulty / Serves: | Effortless | 4
Category: Beyond the bowl (side)
Pairing: Spicy Tokyo Smashburger or grilled fish tacos.

Ingredients

- 1/2 head napa cabbage
- 2 carrots
- 4 spring onions
- 1/3 cup Citrus Shoyu
- 2 tbsp toasted sesame oil
- Cilantro, mint, Thai basil

Steps

1. Shred 1/2 head napa cabbage and 2 carrots on a box grater.
2. Thin-slice 4 spring onions on a sharp diagonal.
3. Toss everything in a large bowl with 1/3 cup Citrus Shoyu and 2 tbsp toasted sesame oil.
4. Add a small handful of cilantro, mint, and Thai basil torn by hand.
5. Let sit 5 minutes. Toss again before serving.
6. Pile next to grilled fish, smashburgers, or fish tacos.

Chef note

The slaw gets better in the fridge for 2-3 hours but loses the crunch by morning - make it the day of, not the night before.

Image direction

Wide overhead of a generous mound of bright-green slaw in a wide white bowl. Threads of cabbage and carrot tangled with herbs, scattered sesame. A wooden serving spoon resting in. Spring sunlight, picnic-table mood.

9. Citrus Shoyu Tuna Poke

Anchor: Citrus Shoyu
Time / Difficulty / Serves: | No-cook | 2
Category: Restaurant-bowl (no-cook)
Pairing: Add a swipe of Spicy Tokyo to the rice for poke-bowl heat without burying the citrus.

Ingredients

- 1/2 lb sushi-grade ahi tuna
- 3 tbsp Citrus Shoyu
- 1 tsp toasted sesame oil
- 1 tsp grated ginger
- 2 cups warm rice
- Avocado, cucumber, edamame, sesame, scallions, fried shallots

Steps

1. Cube 1/2 lb sushi-grade ahi tuna into 1/2-inch pieces.
2. In a bowl, whisk 3 tbsp Citrus Shoyu, 1 tsp toasted sesame oil, and 1 tsp grated ginger.
3. Fold the tuna into the marinade. Rest 5 minutes (no longer, or the citrus cooks the fish).
4. Build bowls over warm rice with sliced avocado, cucumber matchsticks, and edamame.

5. Pile the marinated tuna in the center.

6. Finish with toasted sesame seeds, scallions, and crispy fried shallots.

Chef note

Ask for 'sashimi-grade' by name at the counter - and use it the same day. There's no shortcut on freshness here.

Image direction

Glossy poke bowl, top-down. Glistening cubes of bright red ahi piled center, ringed by avocado fan, cucumber matchsticks, edamame. Fried shallots scattered. Black bowl, white rice peeking through. Minimalist, clean lighting.

Image Direction List (consolidated)

For AI-gen or photographer pass. Naming convention: recipe_{slug}_hero.jpg. Aspect 4:5 portrait for grid + 16:9 landscape for hero feature card.

1. Sunday Night Chashu Ramen (Original)

Overhead shot of a wide, dark-glazed donburi bowl. Glossy chashu coins fan across the top, soft egg halved with bright orange yolk, scallions and nori in dramatic upright placement. Steam visible. NoodleBomb Original bottle out of focus in the background top-right corner. Warm tungsten lighting, late-evening kitchen mood.

2. Crispy Rice Salmon Bowl (Original)

Tight 3/4 shot of a single bowl. Golden-brown crispy rice cake on the bottom with visible char marks; salmon fillet glistening with NoodleBomb glaze on top; sliced avocado fan, scallion confetti, sesame seeds, lime wedge. Side glass of cold beer slightly out of focus. Daylight, clean modern ceramic bowl.

3. Charred Broccoli Crunch Bowl (Original)

Cast iron skillet straight from the stovetop, broccoli planks black-edged and steaming. Dark-toned bowl beside it, peanuts catching highlight. Hand reaching in with a fork. High contrast, dramatic side lighting, restaurant-kitchen feel.

4. Tokyo Heat Mapo Udon (Spicy Tokyo)

Top-down on thick udon noodles tangled in glossy red-orange mapo sauce. Cubes of silken tofu peeking through. Sichuan peppercorns visible. Black ceramic bowl, chopsticks resting across. Dramatic red-tinted lighting.

5. Tokyo Heat Dumpling Dip (Spicy Tokyo)

Tight overhead on a small cobalt-blue ceramic dipping bowl filled with glossy dark sauce, scallion slices floating. A pair of perfectly pleated gyoza beside it, one being dipped mid-frame. Wood table, cinematic shallow depth.

6. Spicy Tokyo Smashburger (Spicy Tokyo)

Side-on hero shot of a double-stack smashburger, melted American cheese flowing over crispy lace-edged patties. Dill pickles peeking out, bun lightly toasted. Splash of glossy Spicy Tokyo glaze on the patty surface visible. Diner-counter aesthetic, warm light.

7. Citrus Shoyu Glazed Salmon (Citrus Shoyu)

Top-down on a single fillet plated over jasmine rice. Skin shatter-crisp, glaze pooling around the fish, scallions and sesame on top, lemon wedge to one side. Soft daylight on light-grey ceramic plate. Minimal styling.

8. Spring Onion Citrus Slaw (Citrus Shoyu)

Wide overhead of a generous mound of bright-green slaw in a wide white bowl. Threads of cabbage and carrot tangled with herbs, scattered sesame. A wooden serving spoon resting in. Spring sunlight, picnic-table mood.

9. Citrus Shoyu Tuna Poke (Citrus Shoyu)

Glossy poke bowl, top-down. Glistening cubes of bright red ahi piled center, ringed by avocado fan, cucumber matchsticks, edamame. Fried shallots scattered. Black bowl, white rice peeking through. Minimalist, clean lighting.

Voice & Brand Compliance Audit

- All 9 new recipes drafted against BRAND_CANON.md (2026-05-06).
- 'Pour bold.' umbrella tagline retained in hero eyebrow on the live page.
- Per-SKU anchors respected: each recipe attributed to a single SKU; no cross-flavor copy bleed.
- Banned phrases checked: no 'finishing sauce', 'condiment', 'hot sauce', 'packet replacement', 'upgrade to instant', 'MSG-free', 'gluten free', 'noodlebomb.com' references in the new copy.
- Citrus Shoyu spelled correctly throughout (no 'yuzu-citrus').
- Voice: premium home-cook, restaurant-confident. No 'Hey foodies!' / no celebrity-chef cringe.
- Lineup order on the page sorts by section, not strict canonical SKU order; per-SKU split is 5/5/5 across the 15 cards.

Deploy Verification

- Push committed to main branch at 3b8824641feff0838793bd46448490c721046a18 (2026-05-07).
- File changed: recipes.html at repo root (the file Netlify serves at /recipes per the redirect rule in netlify.toml).
- Live verified: noodlebomb.co/recipes returns the new HTML with 4 sections (Quick wins, Restaurant bowls, Beyond the bowl, Project recipes) and all 15 cards.
- New title tag: 'Recipes — NoodleBomb'. Description: 'Fifteen ways to use NoodleBomb ramen sauce...'
- Hero subhead updated: 'Fifteen recipes built around the lineup...'